GRANT ONE LETTER; FILE 2 INVENTORIES IN ESTATES HERE

Andrew Accardi is Granted
Letters in Estate of Frances Accardi

TWO INVENTORIES

Numerous Other Wills Filed in Office of Registrar at Doylestown

Letters of administration have been granted in the estate of one deceased Bristolian and inventories have been filed in the estates of two others.

In the estate of Frances Accardi, Bristol, letters have been granted to Andrew Accardi, a brother-in-law, 442
Jefferson avenue, amounting to $600.

Inventories filed in the estates of deceased Bristolians are as follows:
Estate of Catherine E. Scott, $5002.35;
estate of Genarina Martino, $1850 real estate, and $3375 personal estate.

Leaving a personal estate of $2200, Isabel H. Ward, who died at her home in Doylestown, November 8, named various heirs beneficiaries, according to her will probated in the Register of Wills' office, Doylestown.

The individual bequests follow:

Arlene Liddle, a granddaughter, opal necklace and ring; a sister-in-law, a Niagara picture and amethyst pin; a granddaughter, bar pin; Isabel Ward Peterson, a granddaughter, breast pin and ring with a pearl; Sarah H. Kline,
a niece, pearl pins and topaz pendant;
Mrs. Annie Liddle Black, white necklace; grandson, Earl Ward, stickpin and jewel box; Kathryn Hart, a cousin, watch.

Three grandchildren, Mildred Van-Horn, Earl Ward and Isabel Patterson, were each bequeathed $100.

Two nieces, Sarah H. Kline and Annie Krueger, were bequeathed $100 each.

The residue of the estate will be distributed among a granddaughter, Constance Ward. A son-in-law, Thomas Wesley Liddle, was named the executor.

Seven people, Kate Huber, Amanda
Strouse, Ella Wismer, Lizzie Yost, Sarah Wismer, Mary Crouthamel and Alice Huber will share the estate of Christianna Wismer, who died at her home in Doylestown. Sarah Wismer and Amanda Strouse were named the executors.

The Doylestown National Bank and Trust Company was named the executor of the $792.87 estate left by John Donovan, of Warrington, which will be distributed among the heirs.

A daughter, Bessie Conard Buckman of Penns Park, who will inherit the household goods; a husband and a son will share the estate of Mary Emma Buckman, of Wrightstown, which is valued at $3000. The daughter and Robert C. Buckman were named the executors.

Letters of administration in the estate of Joseph K. Rounsavill, Newtown, were granted to Richard Roun-savill, amounting to $2000. Ten children are the heirs.

Hazel F. Rubinkam was granted the letters of administration in the estate of Frank T. Craven, of Ivyland, amounting to $15.51. Five daughters are the heirs.

Inventories were filed as follows:
Estate of Carrie M. Wambold, Sel-lersville, $21,459.39; estate of Anna
M. Brugler, Solebury, $8364.97; estate of Aaron B. Weisel, Milford, $4160.46;

$254.75; estate of Howard B. Austin, Southampton, $3348.75; estate of Mahlon S. Stauffer, Milford, $33,398; estate of Mary Wiant, Quakertown, $9169.19; estate of Jacob Beidler, Perkasie, $5952.75.

Croydon Man Seriously Injured; Was Under Truck

CROYDON, Nov. 23—A Croydon man
lay seriously injured beneath a parked truck in Philadelphia last night, when he was crushed by the vehicle.

The injured:
Adolph S. Uhlman, 40, College Park,
Croydon.

Uhlman, it is stated, was making repairs beneath the truck when it was struck by a machine operated by Alfred Coppens, 36, of 1705 Worrell street, Philadelphia. Coppens gave his license number to persons in the neighborhood, Tacony avenue and Fraley street, when the driver of the truck could not be found.

It was nearly 15 minutes later that Uhlman's groans were heard issuing from beneath the vehicle. He was taken to Frankford Hospital, where it was stated he was suffering from internal injuries and a possible skull fracture.

Coppens was later arrested by officers of the Paul and Ruan streets station.

Daniels Home Meeting Place for S. S. Class

Class No. 22, Bristol M. E. Sunday School, met last evening at the home of Miss Julia Daniels, 315 Otter street,
and as part of the business routine,
elected officers for the ensuing year.
Those selected: President, Miss Doris Moore; vice-president, Miss Lyla
Davidson; secretary, Miss Mildred
Booz; treasurer, Miss Edith Kershaw.
Chosen for the flower committee were the Misses Julia Daniels and Doris Robinson. A pleasant evening of games, followed by refreshments, ensued. Prizes in games were earned by the Misses Doris Moore, Mildred Booz and Lyla Davidson.

SNOW AND TEMPERATURE DROP LIKELY IN STATE

Snow Flurries Continue Here
Since Early Morning
Hours

TOMORROW TO BE FAIR

Snow and blustering winds brought temperatures down well below the freezing point over eastern Pennsylvania and over the Atlantic seaboard
in the second advent of a bitter Winter season.

Bristol experienced continued flurries, beginning in the early morning hours, and indications of still lower temperatures were seen before nightfall.

Thousands of football fans trekking to football games braved icy winds in Philadelphia stadiums. Traffic faced a delay in the city.

The snowfall was the second of the season, and although light in this section, was accompanied by colder weather. Several minor traffic accidents in Philadelphia and out in the suburbs were credited to the snow,
which made the roads slippery.

Corporations' Share Of Unemployment Bill Large

By Arthur H. Wakelee
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1935, by I. N. S.)
HARRISBURG, Nov. 23—(INS)—
Pennsylvania corporations will contribute an estimated $13,000,000 toward the unemployment relief bill of the state as a result of their payments
under the new corporate net income tax during the next biennium, it was pointed out today by Commonwealth authorities.

New revenues to be poured into the state coffers through collections on the tax, which was approved by Governor George H. Earle last May 16, will as-aggregate $26,000,000, according to department of revenue officials. Of this total, 50 per cent is earmarked for relief of the unemployed, while the remaining 50 per cent is allocated to the state's general fund.

John S. Lewis Resigns

Washington, Nov. 23—Climaxing a bitter row that has occurred between the American Federation of Labor and John S. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, Mr. Lewis resigned today as vice-president of the Federation.

To Hold "Death" Drivers Without Bail

Philadelphia, Nov. 23—Automobile drivers involved in fatal accidents in this city will be held without bail, said Coroner Hearst today as he warned the drivers in an effort to reduce accidents taking deaths of persons.

Watchman Found Shot To Death

Camden, N. J., Nov. 23—Paul Brown, 60, of Glendora, was found shot to death today in a Camden rag plant,
where he was employed as a watchman. Detectives are investigating to find if it was a suicide or a murder.
A bullet penetrated Brown's heart.

FOUR-LEGGED CHICKEN

GRAND SALINE, Tex.—(INS)—
Down in this part of the country, folks sure love chicken. So a Rhode Island Red on the farm of Gordon Jordan
"done noble" by the chicken
fanciers. She laid an egg that hatched into a chick with four legs. The quadrupled fowl seems to be getting along nicely, thank you. It's a hearty eater and Mr. Jordan hopes to raise it to maturity.

ADVERTISING DEADLINE EFFECTIVE DECEMBER 2

All advertising copy for insertion in the Courier must be at the Courier office not later than 12 o'clock noon two days previous to day on which the advertising is to appear.

This rule is made necessary in order to give the mechanical department ample time in which to set the ad. and properly illustrate
it. It is hoped that advertisers will co-operate and make reservations for space desired and furnish their copy on time.

Copy will not be accepted after the expiration of the deadline announced above.

WHOM WILL THEY FOLLOW?

Democratic members of the State Legislature must decide one question of major importance before they go into the special session which Governor Earle is calling for early next year.

That question is this: Whom Shall We Follow—the leadership of the Democratic Governor which has been twice repudiated during his first year in office—or the mandate of the people which has been expressed at the polls?

Governor Earle is summoning the legislators to Harrisburg to enact measures which will conform and tie in with the Federal social security act and to raise money for unemployment relief.

Both are pertinent issues and each deserves the serious attention of the people of Pennsylvania.

But the question of increased taxation which threatens to follow in the wake of the proposed legislation is also a pertinent issue—perhaps an issue which will occupy the mind of the people who are ultimately called upon to pay the bills to a greater extent than the principal objectives of the special session of the legislature.

The Republican Senate stood four-square against increased taxation at the last session of the Legislature. It is logical to assume that the Senate will continue to protect the financial well-being of Pennsylvania and the pocket books of its people in the special session.

The Democratic House followed the revenue-raising measures of the Earle administration at the last session. But during the interim between the regular session and the proposed special session, two state-wide elections have been held
—and Governor Earle and his administration have been repudiated.

In other words, the voters back home who send the legislators to Harrisburg have turned "thumbs down" on the New Deal. And it was on the basis of the New Deal that these same legislators were originally elected. Will they obey the will of the people today—or will they blindly follow the leadership of Earle into political chaos?

It would appear that there is a prophecy in the comment of M. Harvey Taylor, Republican State Chairman, on the repudiation of the Earle administration when he says:

"In face of all this, I am wondering if the Governor will continue to demand the same unpopular measures which resulted in defeat of his candidates in two elections?"

HEALTH TALK FEATURES MEETING OF THE P. T. A.

Cornwells Organization Told
That 12 Have Enrolled
In Study Group

ORCHESTRA PLAYS

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Nov. 23—
A meeting of Cornwells P. T. A. was held in the Bensalem Township high school auditorium Thursday evening with Mrs. Roscoe Perkins, president, in charge. Attendance was unusually large. Group singing led by Miss Eleanor Davies opened the meeting, and was followed by reading of minutes and treasurer's report by Miss Withers and Mrs. White, respectively; and committee reports.

Miss Frances Russell stated she is trying to contact someone who would be interested in doing the dental work.
Samuel K. Faust, superintendent of Bensalem school, reported 12 members have enrolled in the study group thus far. The first meeting will be held after the holidays.

Mrs. Joseph Smith exhibited the chart showing membership for each room, and reported the recent card party was very successful, there being 40 tables of players.

Miss Rae Komenarski, and Mrs.
Francis Rossbauer, Andalusia, gave interesting accounts of the fourth biennial conference held at West Chester.

Mrs. White and Mr. Bixler reported the Fall meeting of Bucks County council of P. T. A.'s held at Mill Creek recently. Three awards were made to Cornwells P. T. A. at that time, namely: membership, magazine subscriptions, and for being a standard association.

Attendance banner was won by Miss Patterson's class. The high school orchestra under direction of Miss Eleanor Davies rendered three selections.

"Happy" Goldsmith, of the Philadelphia Interstate Dairy Council, gave a humorous health talk, stressing the importance of caring for and developing the muscles of the body.

A moving picture entitled "Secrets of Citrus" portrayed the orange growing industry in its entirety.

DEMOCRATIC WOMEN MEET

The Women's Democratic Club of Bucks County held its monthly meeting at the Busch House in Quaker-town, Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Shellenberger, president, presided, and discussions about the recent elections by members of the different parts of the county, followed the regular business meeting. Refreshments were served.
Mrs. C. William Freed, Mrs. Alma Kirkpatrick and Miss Fischer were the hostesses. The next meeting will be in Newtown.

WILHELM HEADS BUCKS WPA

William Wilhelm, of Sellersville, has been appointed head of the Bucks county WPA office and director of all its projects.

MIDDLETOWN GRANGE ELECTS ITS OFFICERS

Henry C. Pickering To Be The Master For Ensuing
Year

SELECT THE DELEGATES

LANGHORNE, Nov. 23—Appointment of delegates to the Fall meeting of Lower Bucks and Philadelphia Pomona Grange, No. 22, to be held at Tyro Hall Grange Hall, Buckingham, on Wednesday, December 4, and the election of officers to serve for the ensuing year were features at the meeting of Middletown Grange held in the Friends' school house, here,
Wednesday evening.

Edwin Ridge, Mrs. Oscar Johnson,
Mrs. May Newbold, Mrs. Emma Bilger and Henry C. Pickering were appointed to represent the local branch of Patrons of Husbandry at the sessions at Buckingham next month.

Results of the election were as follows: Master, Henry C. Pickering; overseer, Andrew Hibbs; lecturer, Anna Johnson; chaplain, Edwin Ridge;
steward, Jacob Hibbs; assistant steward, George Yerkes; lady assistant steward, Edna Yerkes; treasurer,
Frank Thompson; gate keeper, Dr. H.
C. Terry; secretary, Anna Thompson;
Ceres, Mabel Hibbs; Pomona, Hannah
Hibbs; Flora, Katherine Webster; members of executive committee, Jesse Webster and Russell Newbold, and members of finance committee, Dr. H.
C. Terry.

At a previous meeting of the grange
the members took up a discussion relative to the prevention of crime
among young men and during the meeting Wednesday evening Dr.
Terry read an article which advocated educating young men against crime
instead of trying to reform them after they had gone astray.

The next meeting of the grange will take place at the home of Mrs. Harriett Mitchell in this borough, on Wednesday evening, December 4. The program for that time has not as yet been arranged.

Pilot Who Accompanied Byrd, To Be at Bensalem

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Nov. 23—
Students of Bensalem Township high school are to witness a unique demonstration on Tuesday afternoon next.

An autogiro, following a short air demonstration, will make a landing on the athletic field at the high school at 1.30. The pilot, William S.
McCormick, Lansdowne, accompanied Admiral Richard Byrd on his second Antarctic expedition, serving as autogiro pilot for the party. He will make the trip here in the same plane he used for the jaunts at the tip of the world.

Pilot McCormick will then give an illustrated lecture in the school auditorium, and will tell the students of many thrilling experiences which occurred during his trip.

READER GIVES SEVERAL POEMS AT CLUB SESSION

Mrs. Lewis Dick, Philadelphia,
at Travel Club; Honor
Mrs. Spring's Memory

HEAR VOCAL NUMBERS

"Modern Poetry" was the program
title at the bi-weekly meeting of the Travel Club yesterday afternoon, the reader being Mrs. Lewis Dick, Philadelphia, an active member of the New Century Club of that city, and leader of the Monday Morning Class.

Two groups of poems were read by Mrs. Dick, who was introduced by her class-mate of earlier years, Mrs. Joseph Smith.

The poems of James Weldon Johnson formed the first group, these being read from Mrs. Dick's autographed copy of "God's Trombones." The selections were: "Colored Woman's Prayer," "The Story of the Creation,"
"The Two Sons," "Go Down Death,"
"Noah Built the Ark," "Let My People Go" and "The Judgment Day." With great feeling were these unusual
"negro sermons in verse" given, and Mrs. Dick was highly complimented upon her presentations. The reader remarked that the negro race is a deeply religious one, and she commented upon the works of Johnson and likewise those of Countee Cullen.

"A Book of Americans," presenting well-known figures in American history in verse, was also given in part,
these ringing poems being the works of Rosemary and Stephen Vincent Benet. This particular group was well recommended for boys and girls of school age, the better to aid in remembering noted Americans and their accomplishments.

The memory of the late Mrs. Louis
C. Spring was honored yesterday by her co-club workers. At the conclusion of Mrs. Dick's presentation of the fitting poem "Go Down Death," Mrs.
Charles I. Bowen and Mrs. John Moyer sang one of Mrs. Spring's favorite hymns "Abide With Me" (Jerome).
The accompanist was Mrs. Marburg
D. Weagley. A solo by Mrs. Bowen was "Largo" by Handel.

During the earlier part of the afternoon meeting, the president, Mrs. J. J.
Willaman, spoke of Mrs. Spring as being "always kind and thoughtful of others. This spirit always characterized Mrs. Spring." The president also told of the manner in which the deceased had carried out her responsibilities during her last illness.

During the brief business meeting
Mrs. Willaman announced that the next two meetings will be conducted in the evening, those of December 6th and 17th. Following the program of the day, the vice-president, Mrs. Walter Pitkonka was in charge of the concluding business features.

Tea was served, the hostesses being
Mrs. John Hargrave, Mrs. Thomas
Scott, and Mrs. J. E. W. Tracy.

HOSTESS TO CLUB

Mrs. Walter J. Dudley, 1808 Benson
Place, entertained the sewing club at her home on Thursday evening. A social time and refreshments were enjoyed.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

(By "The Stroller")
The wife of a prominent Mill street merchant on Friday morning walked into the bath room of her home and much to her surprise found there a woman's brand new hat. Evidently the hat had never been worn.

She picked up the hat and went back to the bedroom where her husband was just rubbing the sleep from his eyes.

"Look at this!" said the wife
in rather questionable tones.
"Do you know anything about it?"

"About what?" asked the astonished husband.

"Why, about this hat—what did you think I was talking about?"
But the husband was just as much at a loss to explain ownership of the hat, where it came from and how it got into the bathroom, as his wife.

The matter was reported to the police and Chief Jones has a real problem on his hands. Not only the reputation of Chief Jones as a Sherlock is at stake but the peace and tranquility of that home is likewise dependent upon the solution of the mystery.

Announces Ogaden's Submission

Rome, Nov. 23—Dina Afferi, acting Minister of Propaganda, formally announced today that all of Ogaden's provinces on Ethiopia's southern front has submitted to the Italian army.

Such an event to place the Italian army in the front of Jigjiga would place
the Italian forces in a position to cut out the important Djibouti-Addis Ababa railroad.

However, this announcement was made a few hours after a communique was sent which cited several captures, and added "with the captures the population was all in the central and southern part of Ogaden, aiding the Italian cause."

Since most of central and southern Ogaden already is occupied by the Italians, and since the western part is by far the most important, the communique's claim was far less significant than that of the acting propaganda minister.

Sanctions Committee Sets Date

Geneva, Nov. 23—The League of Nations Sanctions Committee against Italy will fix the date of December 9th, while strict embargoes designed to suffocate the campaign in Ethiopia
I. N. S. learned today.

It was believed this early date was picked to force President Roosevelt's opinion before the League officials to agree to have United States co-operate with the other countries.

MORRISVILLE COUNCIL AWARDS PIPE CONTRACT

Agree To Purchase 2,400 Feet of Water Main from Burlington Foundry

CONTRACT PRICE, $1,903

MORRISVILLE, Nov. 23—The United States Pipe and Foundry Company, Burlington, N. J., was last night awarded the contract to supply 2,400 feet of six-inch water main for use in a WPA project at Morrisville. The award was made at a session of council when the Burlington firm was the lowest bidder, the price being $1,903.

The award was made in open meeting, following opposition by Councilman Elwood Kohl to a suggested executive session after the four bids received were opened. Included in the purchase are seven reducers and 10 valves.

The pipe will be used following completion of a present WPA project which involves the lowering to a depth of five feet of over 2,000 feet of existing water mains.

Mystery Play Staged By Langhorne Post, Auxiliary

SOUTH LANGHORNE, Nov. 23—
"The Mysterious Case of Dr. Chang," a mystery comedy in three acts, was staged at the Casino last evening by American Legion Auxiliary, and Jesse
W. Soby Post, No. 148, of Langhorne.
A large audience witnessed the excellent presentation, and each player well impersonated the character assumed.

The cast included: Robert Pierce, a young man of mystery, Horace Prevost; Doris Pierce, his sister, Mary Keating; Hattie Pierce, their aunt, Mrs. Beatrice Bentley; Dr. Chang, a Chinese gentleman, Eugene Boyd; Edythe Chapman, Doris'
friend, Mrs. Thomas B. Longhurst; Franklyn Chapman, her brother, Joseph Zalot; Kate O'Connor, the Pierce's cook, Margaret Perry; Sun Lo, a Chinese girl, Elizabeth Foster; Yat Sin, a Chinese servant, Paul Markley; Larry Kinney, the sheriff, Harry Friedrich.

Miss Rita Keating was directress;
the program committee included William A. Thomas, Roscoe L. Horner, Ralph Christie; stage manager was George Morris; property manager,
Frank Cassidy; electrical effects,
Friedrich and VanSant; ushers' committee, Thomas K. Schatt. The orchestra was under direction of Howard B. Phillips; and Mr. Phillips likewise led the Sons of the Legion drum
and bugle corps in two selections.

CAR STRUCK CULVERT

Investigators Think Lights
May Have Blinded
Driver

Another auto fatality was recorded in Bucks County last night, when a 16-year-old boy, star of the soccer team of the Buckingham high school,
was killed and three other high school boys injured, one critically. Their automobile struck a culvert and overturned on the eastern outskirts of Doylestown at about 10 o'clock.

The dead boy is William McClintock, of Spring Valley. His chest was crushed and he suffered a fracture of the skull, dying in the Doylestown Hospital about 20 minutes after the accident.

The injured are Robert Becker, 16,
and Casper Becker, 18, brothers, of Buckingham, and Kenneth Clarke, 16,
of Spring Valley.

Clarke, the most seriously injured,
suffered internal injuries and his right leg was broken. He was taken to the Doylestown Hospital and then removed to the Abington Memorial Hospital.</

THE TROUBLE IN EGYPT

The trouble in Egypt is misinterpreted if one thinks it directly connected with the international troubles occasioned by the war in Ethiopia. Any idea that it was promoted by Italy is absurd. All the elements of the outbreak have existed in Egypt since the end of the World war, and especially since Great Britain announced her recognition of Egyptian independence and then was unable to make a treaty which, in her opinion, would safeguard British interests.

To be sure, there are Egyptians who have wondered if this were not the proper time to strike for real independence. Would not Italy help them? There were powerful arguments to the contrary, the chief of which was the presence of the British fleet off Alexandria. Then, too, if Egypt succeeded with Italian aid, might not Mussolini prove a harder master than the British. Egypt has had some experience in dealing with Great Britain, and there are plenty of Egyptians who consider that the difficulties in the way of getting a treaty have not all been on the British side.

The remark of Sir Samuel Hoare that angered the Egyptian students was to the effect that this is not the moment to restore either the 1930 or the 1923 constitution of Egypt. That might seem an innocent statement in London, inasmuch as the 1930 constitution placed all executive and a great deal of legislative power in the hands of King Fuad, and was therefore highly unpopular with the Wafdist Nationalists, the majority party in Egypt, while that of 1923 had proved unworkable because of party strife. But the Wafdists believe that the 1923 constitution could now be made successfully operative, and they interpreted Sir Samuel to mean that he is opposed to democratic government, as well as to a definitive treaty that will settle the questions of ownership of the Sudan and the presence of British soldiers in Egypt.

The only reason for taking the Cairo riots seriously is that they occur now, while Europe is in a turmoil over Ethiopia. There have been plenty of such outbreaks in the past dozen years, directed sometimes against Great Britain, sometimes against the ministry in power, times against King Fuad, some- times against the Egyptian question is settled.

BAKED AIR

Living in the territory of the United States, some form of central heating is considered desirable and necessary in winter. Thereby it becomes possible to live in comfort in cold climates, and winter loses much of its terror.

And yet because people are careless about ventilation and about preserving the natural humidity of the air, the majority of these homes supply the people with baked air, in which the natural moisture is dried out, rendering the inmates subject to the multitude of ills which they get in winter.

The human body was not meant to live in such artificial atmospheric conditions as are produced in winter in the majority of homes. These folks do not ventilate their rooms properly, or see that the air has the needed moisture. Old Man Grip will lay them low.

Home Heating Hints

by JOHN BARCLAY

HERE is a daily heating schedule that will help you to get more satisfaction from the fuel you burn:

IN THE MORNING—In order to get heat up quickly, open the Ashpit Damper wide and close the Check Damper. Do not add fresh coal until the fire is burning briskly. And when you do put on fresh coal, don't forget to leave an exposed spot of live coals directly in front of the fire door. It may also be necessary to shake the grates a little. This depends on whether or not they were shaken the night before.

DURING THE DAY—Rely entirely on the Check and Ashpit Dampers to control the fire. Never use the Turn Damper for daily regulation. Keep it as nearly closed as possible without hindering the free burning of the fire.

AT NIGHT—Before banking the fire shake the grates gently . . . until the first red glow appears in the ashpit. Wet the ashes and move them. When banking the fire always open the Check Damper and close the Ashpit Damper. Never leave the Fire Door open when banking the fire.

"WIFE IN CUSTODY" by BEATRICE LUBITZ

SYNOPSIS

Helen Schiller, pretty manicurist in the Forty-fourth Street branch of the swanky Anastasia Beauty Salons, so far forgot discipline one morning as to dance a few steps before the work-day began—and was seen by Walter Riley, owner of the salons. He did not speak then about this, but returning that evening to the shop, went to her—and found himself disarmed by her smile, and attracted to her. He asked if he might take her to dance, and she assented. That led to other evenings together—evenings spent with him ever afraid that his sisters, who managed the Anastasia Salons for him, might see him.

After one evening at the theatre, Helen fell asleep as he drove her to her home in Bay Ridge—and he awakened her with a light kiss. She pushed him away, but he would not be denied, and he kissed her again. "You are the first girl I have ever kissed," he told her soberly, realizing that he loved her. Events in the Riley family followed fast, with Irene, who managed the swanky Fifty-seventh Street Salon, becoming engaged to the socially prominent Dirk Terhune. Walter sent a telegram to Helen asking her to meet him that night. She was thrilled by the ending—"Love." The day of Irene's marriage found the Riley home in an uproar with Mrs. Anastasia Riley wearing diamonds against the wishes of Irene. Squabbles held the center of the stage.

CHAPTER X

Irene exploded again when she saw Agnes. This time there was a real scene. Agnes had lately gone girlish and the effect even Anastasia, who usually on general principles opposed Irene, had to admit was pretty awful. In her effort to look young because Carl was so youthful, Agnes, with the Riley thoroughness, had carried measures to extremes. She wore an Empire-cut light blue velvet dress and had arranged her hair in curls on top of her head.

She came into the bedroom a little hesitantly and Irene who was being ministered to by the maid, nearly collapsed when she saw her. Stella, who had on her long squirrel wrap and was carefully pulling on long pearl-gray kid gloves, dissolved into weak laughter.

"My Lord, Agnes," she choked, "where in the name of heaven did you get that rig? No wonder you hid in your room with it."

Agnes burst into tears. Irene stormed. Anastasia commanded shortly: "Take off that truck. Hurry up, young lady, we ain't got much time. Mary, comb out my daughter's hair and shake your stumps. Stella, run into Agnes's room and find her a slip and black slippers."

They all fell to re-dressing Agnes who was like putty in the hands of the others.

"Now don't sweat up the armpits of this dress, you fool," Irene snapped.

She had her hat on now and was pawing the ground with impatience.

Finally they were ready to go. Anastasia, Irene and Walter, and Agnes and Carl, looking frightened and uncomfortable in correct morning wedding attire, went in the limousine with their liveried chauffeur while Stella and Jerry, Ethel and Eddie, went in a hired car with another chauffeur.

was a short quarrel in the foyer as to who was to go in which car.

But when they arrived at the Terhune apartment they really presented an imposing group. With the exception of Agnes, who was only passable, the other three were noticeably attractive women. Anastasia herself was magnificent with her high square shoulders and firmly planted head. In her youth Anastasia had been able to carry a paul of water on her head while running without spilling a drop.

Irene was carried off by old Mrs. Terhune, a silvery old lady with a quavering voice and lovely old blue eyes in a face like cracked porcelain.

"My dear," she said to Irene as she took her wrap, "it is so lovely and dear of you to come here to us for the ceremony. We appreciate it so much. I hope you'll be happy. Oh! I know you and Dirk will be so happy. He's in the next room with father waiting for you. Dirk, come in, dear, I have brought you your bride."

Dirk came in swiftly from his father's room. He came directly to Irene's side. "Dear," he whispered. He took both her hands; then drew his mother to him with his free hand.

"I never knew it was possible to be so happy." He laughed joyously. Irene put her cheek against his. She was nearly as tall as he. She looked at his fine sensitive face, his full wide mouth, deep blue eyes like his mother's, behind the tortoiseshell glasses he habitually wore. She liked his glasses, they suited him and gave his face a homelier, less ascetic look.

"I love you, Dirk," Irene looked deeply into his eyes. "I do want to make you so happy."

He kissed her. "Darling!" He kissed his mother and Irene leaned over and kissed her too.

"Oh Dirk, thank you for the lovely flowers. It was so sweet of you to send each of us a corsage. Mother was so pleased."

Mr. Terhune came in. He was a twin to his wife, silvery, fragile, his blue-veined hands extended. "Greetings, my daughter," he said simply. "Thank you, father."

He kissed her tenderly, then his wife and then his son. There was something so genuinely beautiful in his greeting that Irene felt the tears rise to her eyes. Dirk's eyes behind his glasses were moist.

The big wood-paneled living room was now comfortably filled with people. As Irene entered her eye involuntarily sought her mother and sisters. They made an attractive group by the window, Anastasia leaning on her son's arm. A wave of love suffused Irene. How handsome they were. She gave them a brilliant smile.

They were proud of Irene, proud of themselves. Among the guests were some of New York's oldest families: the Updykes, the Dittmars, Colonel and Mrs. Ten Eyck, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Chase, the Copleys-Blakes. The Rileys looked as good as the best!

Truly the Rileys had come a long way.

The simple ceremony over, there was served, in the dining room adjoining, a wedding breakfast (the Rileys secretly thought it extremely meager). Only Anastasia of the Rileys could appreciate the wine. She knew wines, for she had been for eight years before her marriage in the kitchen of the Hasebrinks, the big Brooklyn beer king.

ter to the gay accompaniment of handfuls of rice and good wishes. The guests slowly dispersed.

In the other car, Anastasia and Agnes were indulging in a Riley complimentary orgy.

They agreed that Irene looked beautiful; that Dirk was the nicest member of his family and of all his friends and that the Rileys were actually the cream of the party.

"His sister is certainly some frump," Agnes supplied contentedly, nestling happily against her husband.

Anastasia snorted: "What she needs is some Anastasia beauty treatments."

"I like Dirk," Walter observed. "There's something so big and fine about him. I like him better than anyone I've ever met."

"Oh, you mustn't like him better than my Carl," Agnes bleated girlishly.

"Stop being kittenish," Anastasia admonished roughly. "I get sick when you do."

Agnes turned white but said nothing. Walter stepped hastily into the breach. "I'm going to be awfully busy these next few days. I guess we both will, eh, Carl, old boy?"

"We sure will, you bet," Carl responded fervently.

Arriving at the apartment, they all rushed in to change their clothes.

"I'll run you up to your place in my car, Stella," Walter told her. "I left some papers there that I need."

"Oh that will be fine, Jerry, darling, you're going straight over to Brooklyn, aren't you, dear?"

"Yes, hon."

"Will you meet me for dinner or do you want me to come to Brooklyn?"

"Don't bother," he said hastily. "I'll meet you at the Brevoort at 7."

"You won't be late, lover?"

"I'll try not to be. You know sometimes I can't get away to the minute."

"You'll call me if you're delayed, won't you, lover? Promise. You know I get so nervous waiting."

"You must learn not to be nervous," he teased, pinching her cheek.

"But you'll surely be there, pet?"

"Certainly," he exploded impatiently, "and for lord's sake if I am late, don't get hysterical. I'll be there, I tell you."

"All right, dearest, and please try not to be late."

Jerry made his escape. Stella, redressed, now joined Walter.

"I'm ready, Walt."

"Righto."

They drove in silence to Forty-fourth Street. "Well, Walter," Stella said finally, "you're the last of the Rileys still unmarried. If Irene could manage a Terhune, I guess you'll land one of the Vanderbilts girls."

"Don't kid yourself, Stell. What would a Vanderbilt girl want with me?"

"Why, Walter, you're the best looking man outside of the movies. That reminds me, Walt, you'll have to give Jerry a raise. He can't manage on what you're paying him. Look what Carl's getting, nearly twice as much. It isn't fair, Walt. I've done as much for the business as Agnes. Why should Carl get two hundred a week and Jerry only a hundred and a quarter?"

"Because Carl does twice as much work," Walter retorted bluntly.

A CAPTAIN OF DEATH AMONG YOUNG PEOPLE

"Tuberculosis continues its destructive march among our youth and young married couples. This situation is a challenge to youth, to the school authorities, and to the community."

This statement was made today by the Bucks County Tuberculosis Society who declared the disease is "Captain of the Men of Death" in the younger age groups, and continued:

"The greatest cause of death among school children from five to 20 years of age, except for accidents, is tuberculosis. Last year in Pennsylvania 280 children under 15 years succumbed to the disease. Above those ages the death toll was much heavier. From 15 to 20 the deaths numbered 263; 20 to 25, 517; 25 to 30, 543.

"Tuberculosis deaths in the age group 15 to 45 are

Nearly ten times the number of deaths from cerebral hemorrhage and softening of the brain;

More than 3 times the number of deaths from nephritis;

Nearly 3 times the number of deaths from cancer;

Nearly twice the number of deaths from pneumonia;

About one-third more than the deaths resulting from heart disease and one-fifth more than the deaths from accidents.

"All this heavy sacrifice of lives, besides the monetary loss, suffering and disruption of families, is caused by a preventable disease.

"One of the means of meeting this disastrous situation is to provide protective care for children. The Tuberculosis Societies are co-operating with parents and school authorities in this work. Many school children are being given the tuberculin test, a simple method of learning if a child is infected. The result indicates whether a child should exercise special care or be placed under medical care.

"The work of the Tuberculosis Society is made possible by the sale of the bright Christmas Seals. The Seal this year pictures a girl of Civil War times dropping a letter in one of the original mail boxes."

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS

Mrs. Bertha States spent the week-end with friends in Philadelphia.

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1935, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

HOLLYWOOD—The fur still flies over Leslie Howard's charges that Hollywood polo horses are the worst in the world and film colony players are the most reckless. Guinn ("Big Boy") Williams writes us, special delivery:

"I do wish that those so freely expressing their opinions were more capably qualified, or more familiar with their subject. Hal Roach, Darryl Zanuck, Frank Borzage and Charles Farrell have horses that are qualified to play in any company in the world. I myself have owned over 200 horses in the last five years. Out of that number, I selected 40, and three of them I lent to the western team for the last east-west contest."

Williams makes the statement right out that he does not consider Howard a competent player.

He admits that polo has some elements of danger but doesn't rate them above the chances of crossing a boulevard or taking a shower in a bathtub. He hints that some of Hollywood's reported polo injuries of the past were actually due to brawls.

Is this a laugh? Mae West recently authorized a factory in Port Alleghe, Pa., to make dolls and name them after her. On the first day, the factory caught fire and held up production for two weeks. What a personality!

Have a chuckle at this story, too, which is told by Eleanor Prentiss, Hollywood chorine.

Dave Gould, the dance director, she relates, is near-sighted. The other day, at rehearsals, he was trying to whip a line of cuties into more enthusiasm.

"Get into this now!" he shouted. "And that goes for you over in the corner, too!"

The company went into hysterics, which Gould could not understand until someone explained that the "laggards" in the corner were really a row of coats on a rack.

You Asked Me and I'm Telling You! Clayton Kiddle, Glendale. Both the "Lives of a Bengal Lancer" and "Mutiny on the Bounty" as you suspect, are strong propaganda for good old England. Every man in the motion picture crew of 70 is first asked: "Are you inclined to sea-sickness?"

Since the recent brush fires in the hills, Sherwood Forest, favorite location spot for movie companies, is crowded with deer, and they present a new problem to the picture folk. Paramount's "Desire" troupe (Marlene Dietrich and Gary Cooper are the stars) lost hours when the frightened animals ran across long shots. "Desire," you see, is supposed to take place in a part of Spain where there are no deer. The men crashing in the bushes, too, spoiled the sound-tracks.

What distinguished character actor (you'd be amazed if his name were printed here) showed up so early on the set the other morning that production had to be called off until he could be given first aid measures?

HOLLYWOOD — (INS) — Of all things, bathing suits are now going modest!

Advance hints of what's going to be swim attire. Her suit, with halter top what in beach wear for spring are now coming in, via the winter-resort channel. And it looks as if the brassiere-and-trunks costume, so popular last season, is definitely on its way out. Not that you won't see them scattered here and there, understand—but the majority of tummies will be covered. And that, with so many of you gals forgetting to do your exercises, is exactly as it should be!

Instead, the new suits will skip on materials in the neckline, on the back, and on the trunks. They will be short, backs will be nil, and the newest-looking will have very low V-necks. Halters also will continue, and colors will be both solid and gay.

Helen Vinson, wife of Fred Perry, the tennis player, was glimpsed at Palm Springs recently, heralding the spring mode in the smartness of her swim attire. Her suit, with halter top and pleated trunks, was Japanese-printed silk in a flower pattern; over it, her long colorful robe of Roman-striped towelling was a bright note indeed.

Patricia Ellis, playing in "Freshman Love," a college picture scheduled for release coincident with the rowing season, has a beach costume showing another new trend. Of white silk-linen, it is made in one piece, like a play suit, with bands of green silk for trim, and a drawstring neckline making it high in front while the back is bare. Underneath, skin-tight panties of white jersey are worn, and over the bathing suit goes a skirt of the same white silk, laced down the front.

Black jersey makes a distinctive bathing costume for the always distinctive Dolores Del Rio, in "Meet the Duchess." One-piece, and scant, it has no back, while a white jersey collar like a man's shirt finishes the front neck-line and little lapels of the contrasting material fold down at the back waistline, over the panties.

Other suits show the tummy discreetly covered, with a piece of material joining the brassiere-top with the trunks, while the top is cut way out under the arms and the back is a minus quantity as usual. Thus I see a new trend toward modesty in bathing suits—or maybe women have finally realized that when it comes to showing off their best points, an expanse of tummy is seldom one of them!

YARDLEY

Mrs. Harry B. Arnel and Mrs. Fred A. Hebington have been named as a committee to meet with the rector, the Rev. Walter Cresson Pugh and the members of the Daughters of the King concerning a suitable memorial for Miss Emma Howell, who was an active worker in the church a number of years ago. Prior to her lengthy illness Miss Howell took an active part in the women's work of the parish.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Yardley entertained at dinner and cards on Wednesday evening.

GIVES INSTRUCTIONS TO DEER HUNTERS

HARRISBURG, Nov. 23.—Hunters may not kill antlerless deer during the regular buck season nor may they kill bucks during the antlerless deer season, according to W. C. Shaffer, acting executive secretary of the Board of Game Commissioners, who, in an announcement today clarified this and other questions which have not been clear to many hunters.

The regular buck season begins December 2 and closes December 11, during which period only male deer having two or more points, to the antler may legally be taken.

The antlerless deer season begins December 12 and closes December 11, during which only antlerless deer may legally be taken.

Spike bucks are protected at all times.

An individual may kill only one deer, either a legal buck or an antlerless deer. He may not kill one of each as some hunters suppose.

The counties open to antlerless deer include Bradford, Cameron, Centre, Clearfield, Clinton, Elk, Forest, Lycoming, McKean, Pike, Potter, Sullivan, Tioga and Warren.

A hunter who kills an antlerless deer must keep it regardless of its size or weight. Any attempt to evade this regulation will make a hunter liable to immediate prosecution.

A camp or hunting party which has not taken its camp limit of six during the buck season may complete their limit with antlerless deer in any of the counties open to antlerless deer.

Antlerless deer must be reported to the Board of Game Commissioners within 72 hours after killing. Cards for this purpose were handed out with the 1935 hunting licenses, but in case you did not receive any, you can secure them either from your local Game Protector or from the Commission at Harrisburg.

Remember the carcass of an antlerless deer may not be consumed at the camp, unless such camp happens to be the permanent residence of one of the camp members.

Remember also to wear plenty of red and to be especially careful while hunting near C. C. C. and W. P. A. camps. Over 200,000 C. C. C. workers and about the same number of W. P. A. workers will be in the fields and woods during the deer season and the killing or injuring of one of these individuals would reflect much justified criticism on the part of Pennsylvania hunters generally.

POSTPONE ST. ANN'S BOUTS FOR MONDAY

Boxing bouts scheduled by St. Ann's A. A. to be held in Mutual Aid Hall Monday night have been called off until further notice as the result of the wrangle between the State Boxing Commission and the Amateur A. A., which sanctions all bouts held here.

The State Boxing Commission has ruled that all amateur bouts must be refereed by an official referee and to this ruling the Amateur A. A. has taken violent exception.

Greatest Since Grange?

By BURNLEY

Oze Simmons, the Ebony Eel of Iowa, and Jumping Joe Williams, chunky Ohio State speed merchant, have been ballyhoosed throughout the Middle West as the greatest running backs to come from that sector since the wraith-like Red Grange packed the porkhike for the Illini.

Simmons, touted as a marvel last year after he ran wild against Northwestern, petered out in the last half of the season, but that was mainly because those rough, tough Minnesota bruisers ranged up on him and practically crippled the fleet septa shadow before the game was over.

The slippery Oze was never the same after the beating he took from the Gophers, and the 1934 Iowa team went completely to pieces with Simmons out of the picture.

This year, the Dark Ghost of Iowa has picked up where he left off after his 1934 Northwestern triumph, and has accounted for most of the Hawkeyes' victories almost single-handed.

Andy Kerr returned from Iowa City raving about Oze after Solem's shifty star had blinded the Colgate team. One Colgate scout went so far as to rate Simmons as a better ball totter than the incomparable Grange.

Williams, the other candidate for the mantle of Illinois' erstwhile Galloping Ghost, is a low-slung, compactly-built fellow who offers an extremely difficult target for tacklers. He is only five feet five inches tall, with a barrel-like chest and big shoulders, and when he hurtles over the ground in a slightly crouched posture it is mighty difficult to stop him.

Jumping Joe is a natural ball-carrier, with a great change of pace and a flair for evading lunging tacklers. Only a sophomore, he has the poise of a veteran, and is already the climax runner of a team that is blessed with a tremendous array of talented backs. The Ohio State Flyer seems certain to attain All-American rating before his college career is over.

ST. ANN'S XI TO PLAY LAMBERTVILLE, SUNDAY

LAMBERTVILLE, Nov. 25.—The Lambertville Ramblers will play the strong St. Ann's team of Bristol at Lambertville on Sunday on the High School field. This will be the first appearance away from home in three years of the strong Bristol aggregation. It will be remembered that St. Ann's defeated the local eleven the past two years, the games being played at Bristol.

The Lambertville boys have their strongest lineup on the field, all of the cripples having recovered from their injuries. A large crowd is anticipated and the crowd will be capably handled by the Fire Patrol. The Ramblers so far this season are undefeated.

The probable lineup will be as follows:

Left Tackle ..... Milbury
Left Guard ..... "Bud" Moonan
Center ..... "Duffy" Mangan
Right Guard ..... "Bunch"
Right Tackle ..... W. Schmutz
Right End ..... "Feener" Moonan
Quarterback ..... Smith
Left Half Back ..... "Bob" Masterson
Right Half Back ..... Optyke
Fullback ..... Warner

Also on tap will be the following capable substitutes: Harry Schmutz, Mines, Garofino, Higgins, Hoppeck, Sherrone, Templeton, Scheetz, Klingner and Steinmetz. Sunday, December 1, the Ramblers will play the strong Bustleton team, this game being postponed because of the storm last Sunday.

7 p. m., in Presbyterian Church. Card party at Jones' Neshamony House, benefit of Newport Road Community Chapel.

Dec. 17—Annual turkey card and radio party, benefit of St. Ann's Church, in St. Ann's Auditorium.

Dec. 18—Charity card party in Odd Fellows hall by Lily Rebecca Lodge.

UTOPIA LAID OUT FOR ASTRONOMERS IN WEST

Site of World's Biggest Telescope to Be Surrounded With Luxury

AT PALOMAR PEAK, CAL.

By Griffing Bancroft, Jr.
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

PALOMAR MOUNTAIN PEAK, San Diego County, Cal., Nov. 23.—(INS)—A modern Utopia devoted purely to the furtherance of human knowledge.

That is the plan for the self-sufficient little community well under construction here today.

Three years before its 200-inch telescope is ready to glean new secrets from the skies, work on what will become the world's largest observatory and a rendezvous for scientists the world over, has been launched by Pasadena's California Institute of Technology.

Crews of workmen, under the supervision of technicians from the institute, have been installed on this mountain top. Broad roads and new-type earthquake and termite proof buildings are springing up almost overnight.

Meanwhile in Corning, N. Y., the gigantic glass which will enable the new telescope to see things hitherto undreamed of, is being cooled. The process is a tedious one, care being needed to insure that the 200-inch diameter does not crack. This winter the mirror will be shipped to the institute in Pasadena, Calif., where three years will be spent grinding and polishing it.

Eventually it will be transported up the 6,000 feet to the top of this mountain. With little ceremony it will be installed under a gigantic steel dome and the work of the observers will begin. And by that time this 640 acre site of grasslands overlooking the tall timbers, will have been transformed into an ideal retreat for astro-physicists and other observers of the heavens.

Adjoining the observatory proper will be a large building devoted to housing the library. Here will be a complete collection of the world's leading works on astronomy in all its phases, conveniently filed for ready reference by the observers.

Surrounding the observatory will be laboratories, photo-electric shops, developing rooms where the scientists may conduct experiments and study results of their observations.

Nor will the bodily wants of the savants be overlooked. Spacious sleeping quarters and eating rooms are under construction, including six bungalows and a $9,000 caretaker's house. In these dwellings the scientists will be able to remain comfortably for the duration of any heavenly phenomena.

Lighting, heating, sewage, and water systems are under construction so that when complete the observatory will be a self-sufficient little village. Fate seemed to play into the hands of the scientists when their water problem was solved by a natural freak. Recent earthquakes which rocked the coastal area sealed up many of the springs on the slope of the mountain. This fact resulted in added pressure for the open springs near the top, with which, and a few large tanks, the water problem is settled.

Overlooking the sea on the west and the desert on the east, stately Palomar was selected as the site of the telescope after seven years investigation of 15 other mountain tops by scientists from the institute. Considered free from earthquake danger and unmolested by the lights of large cities, it lies 75 miles from San Diego and 100 miles from Los Angeles.

A specially widened highway up the mountain is being built to permit the delicate work of transporting the fragile, 22-ton glass disc which will form the mirror of the giant eye.

Regular use of the Courier classified column is economical and profitable.

YARDLEY

A family thanksgiving service will be held in the Methodist Church on Wednesday evening, at 7.45. The Rev. Francis C. Thomas will be in charge.

Miss Shirley Drews is spending some time in Fox Chase with her grandmother, Mrs. Carl Anderson.

Mrs. Lucy A. Harper attended the golden anniversary meeting of Wrightstown W. C. T. U. held in Penns Park Church, Tuesday.

Dr. Oliver C. Engle was honored by the Bible Class of the Second Presbyterian Church of Princeton, N. J., on his 79th birthday, Sunday. Dr. Engle is the leader of the class.

FACES PRISON FOR LIFE

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 23.—(INS)—Prison bars for the remainder of his life today faced swaragery Ray Kunselman, 35, the oil fields "Romeo,"

for the slaying of his pretty, young sweetheart, Dorothy Virginia Horne, 19. Although the five women and seven men who composed the jury spared Kunselman from death in the electric chair, after eight hours' deliberation, they rejected his story the fatal shooting was an accident and the plea of his attorney for a manslaughter verdict.

WAR PLANS

ASMARA, Nov. 23.—(INS)—Indicating the wide extent of Italian preparations for further military operations on the northern front, 500 trucks filled with hundreds of tons of munitions were concentrated today at ammunition dumps near the front line in Ethiopia.

As Unbeaten Elevens Meet

Palmer Stadium, Princeton, N. J., will be scene of tense clash between Dartmouth and the Tigers, both unbeaten and untied. Princeton has an abundance of backfield power besides Ken Sandbach, keen Tiger field general, and Jack White to star in running, passing and kicking. Leaders of the Big Green attack will probably be Frank Nairne and John Handrahan with a passing barrage similar to that which sank Cornell.

Stars of Blue and Crimson in Grid Battle

Captain Kim Whitehead, Yale's plunging fullback, leads a favored Bulldog against Captain Shaun Kelly's (star Crimson end) underdog John Harvard at Soldiers' Field, Cambridge, Mass. Even with Dick Harlow's coaching, Harvard's forward pass defense with George Ford and George Hedblom in the backfield will have to be good to stop Larry Kelley, the Blue's pass receiver par excellence. Tommy Curtin, Bulldog halfback, will probably see plenty of action since he's now their best placement kicker and Yale may need those valuable points after touchdowns to win.

FOOTBALL BRISTOL RECREATION CENTER

In and Out of the Blue Book

Perusal of 1936 New York Social Register shows omission of many prominent names and inclusion of others omitted last year. Among the "outs" are Countess Barbara Hutton Hauswitz-Reventlow, shown below with husband; Cornelius Vanderbilt (top, left), and Marjorie Oelrichs who became bride of Eddie Duchin (both above), orchestra leader. Eve Symington (lower right), is again included though she is now a professional singer.
